

Leningrad – By Tom Farley

A D A E A D A E

Leaving Moscow on a midnight train Hard class and warm champagne

A D A E A D A E

Share a cubby hole with Jack and Diane Get some sleep any way we can

A D A E A D A E

Russians come and Russians go Six hundred thousand lying in a row

A D A E A D A E

Solemn eyes and open hands So much about it I don't understand

Chorus

It's in the air how much they care And it makes me feel so bad

How much they'd give the chance to live The life they never had....Leningrad

Champagne in bottles instead of beer Pushkin expressway with Vladimir

Clear and cloudy, blue and gray Summer and winter in just one day

Pins and watches....hit and run Strolling on Nevsky just to have some fun

Baltic breezes and a midnight sun Hotel Karelia when the day is done

Chorus
